

The papers should be structured as follows:

- a) Title: Should be short and informative.
- b) Authors(s): The complete, unabbreviated names should be given along with the affiliation (institution), city, country and email address.
- c) Abstract: A brief abstract of 150–200 words must accompany each manuscript. It should contain some basic information of the paper: why the research was carried on, the results and their importance.
- d) Keywords: Authors should give 3–5 keywords immediately after the abstract.
- e) Introduction: Should include the aims of the study and results from previous notable studies.
- f) Methodology: Methodology of the study, together with the research methods and instruments used should be described clearly and briefly.
- g) Results and Discussion: This section may be separated into two parts. Unnecessary repetition should be avoided.
- h) Conclusions: The general results of the research are presented in this section.
- i) Acknowledgements: Should be as short as possible.
- j) References: Should follow the Harvard referencing system.

Diagrams, Figures and Photographs should be constructed so as to be easy to understand and should be named „Figures”. The author should write their title and indicate where the figure should be placed in the article; however, please note that the figures themselves should be provided separately from the MS Word article, as .tif or .jpg files of at least 300 dpi, named as Figure no. ... (name of the figure). Figures should be referred to by numbers, and not by the expressions „below” or „above”. The number of figures should be kept to minimum (maximum 10 figures per paper).

Tables should be numbered consecutively throughout the paper. Their titles must be given at the top of the tables. Their dimensions should correspond to the format of the Journal page. The tables should be placed immediately near (after or before) the reference that is being made to them in the text. Tables should be referred to by numbers, and not by the expressions „below” or „above”. The measure units (expressed in International Measuring Systems) must be explicitly presented.

Formulas, Equations should be numbered by Arabic numbers in small parentheses, in order of appearance, and should be Centered. The literal part of formulas should be in Italics.

Footnotes are not allowed. If the reference is not in English, than the original title in the language of origin should be given, followed by the translation in English in round parentheses. Example: Managementul calitatii (In English: Quality Management)

References. Starting with Vol. 3, Issue 4, references should follow the Harvard referencing system (known as Author & Date system); the references should list recent literature also. References should be listed in alphabetical order, regardless of their order of appearance in the text of the article. Please follow closely the indications of Harvard referencing systems explained below.

Harvard Referencing Guide

What is referencing?

Referencing is a system used in the academic community to indicate where ideas, theories, quotes, facts and any other evidence and information used to undertake an assignment, can be found.

The basics

Harvard is known as the Author & Date system:

1. Citations in the text of your article should be made following the in-text guidelines given in the examples on the following pages.
2. A complete list of all the citations used in your text will need to be provided at the end of the article. This is called your reference list and needs to be presented in alphabetical author/originator order.

Italics & underlining

Only the title of the source of information should be italicized.

How to reference sources

Here are some examples of how to reference commonly used resources:
